- ✓ Avoid other local meetings and events
- ✓ Inform our parents about what we are doing

Who Plans?

- ✓ If the club is small, everyone helps.

- ✓ Parents will be interested in being present when planning is done

The Club Year

- ✓ Includes an annual meeting in October or November

Send on copy of your completed plan to your County Extension Office no later than January 1. The club leader, secretary and program chairman should have a copy. If desired, each family may also have a copy of this circular.

Goals

Goals are the things 4-H club members and leaders decide they want to do during the coming year. As club members gain experience, they usually add to the list of goals.

Some examples could include: develop greater family participation; make every 4-H'er feel important in the club; participate in community functions.

Other goals might include plans for activities, publicity, improving club meetings, member participation, member recruitment, etc.

Goals for our club:

Projects Provide Program Material

In a new club with first year members, all members should take only one project and if possible the same one. Of there are both boys and girls in the club, two projects could be make available, but each member should be limited to one. This makes it possible for the educational part of the program to provide help for the members, and for the leaders to help all the members ay once. Information on record journals, demonstrations, judging, etc. is much more meaningful when members are learning about the same project.

In an established club where many members have had several years' experience, and carry several projects, program planning becomes more difficult.

One suggestion is to make a list of members down one side of a sheet of paper. List projects across the top and check each member's projects. Total all columns to see how many members are taking each project. Maybe plans can be made so foods members in the club are responsible for the educational part of one meeting, livestock members another, etc. until all projects have been worked into the program.

Work Meetings are recommended for all clubs whether there is only one project or many. At a work meeting, the entire time is spent on the project work and members can get individual help if needed. Usually a work meeting is devoted to only one project.
